Grip Quickly Knocked Out.
"Some weeks ago during the severe winter weather both my wife and myself contracted severe colds which speedily developed into the worst kind of la grippe with all its miserable symptoms," says Mr. J. S. Egleston of Maple Landing, Iowa. "Knees and joints aching, muscles sore, head stopped up, eyes and nose running, with alternate spells of chills and fever. We began using Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, aiding the same with a double dose of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, and by its liberal use soon completely knocked out the grip." THE REAL TEST

Of Herpicide Is In Giving It a Thorough Trial.
There is only one test by which to judge of the efficiency of any article and that is by its ability to do that which it is intended to do. Many hair vipers may look nice and smell nice, but the point is—do they eradicate Dandruff and stop falling hair?
No, they do not, but Herpicide does, because it goes to the root of the evil and kills the germ that attacks the papilla from whence the hair gets its life.
Letters from prominent people everywhere are daily proving that Newbro's Herpicide stands the "test of use."
It is a delightful dressing, clear, pure and free from oil or grease.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

RED CROSS RELIEF

PEOPLE DISPLAY FORTITUDE

Dr. Devine, Representative of National Red Cross Relief Works in San Francisco, Praises Pluck of Sufferers.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 28.—Dr. Edward Devine, of New York, representative of the National Red Cross relief work, in San Francisco, having had four days experience with conditions prevailing here, at the request of the Associated Press made the following statement covering his observations.

Admires Courageous Spirit.
"I wish to express my admiration for the pluck and courage, the enthusiasm and capacity of hard work manifested by the people of San Francisco under the most trying conditions.

"When I left New York on Thursday, the 19th, we knew only that there had been a serious disaster, but in fact more than half of the disaster occurred after I started. All sorts of rumors reached us en route as to loss of life, shooting panic and death. We heard little or nothing of the efficient organization of citizens appointed by the mayor, comprising the best men in the community, acting in conjunction with General Funston and the United States army. We knew that there was need for relief. As soon as the character of the local organization was understood President Roosevelt and Secretary Taft recognized that it was the proper channel through which to distribute these large gifts. I had left New York through the agency of a charitable organization. While on the way I was requested by Secretary Taft, president of the National Red Cross, to act as the representative of the Red Cross in San Francisco. On arrival there I placed myself in communication with Circuit Judge Morrow, president of the California Red Cross, General Greely, Governor Pardee and Mayor Schmitz. I came simply as a messenger of good will and desire to lend a helping hand, not to criticize. The committee under the chairmanship of Mr. Phelan comprises twenty of the best citizens of the commercial unity and has entire charge of the financial end of the work of relief. Direction has been made to all to send all funds to the order of Mr. Phelan.

Relief Work Systematized.

"The next important step was to arrange for the systematic reception and distribution of supplies. Fortunately the splendid organization of the United States army is eminently fitted to cope with this difficulty. Under the system now in force under the quartermasters the army receives, unloads and transports all the supplies that are consigned for the relief of the sufferers. Officers in charge of the commissary department attend to the work of distribution to the various relief stations scattered through the city. At these relief stations a present the distribution to citizens is made by volunteer relief committees. As fast as may the management of these relief stations will be taken over by the military in order that the public spirited citizens will have been doing volunteer work in this direction may be enabled to resume their regular work or to take up such new means of livelihood as may be chosen.

"These measures have been telegraphed from time to time to Secretary of War, Taft, and yesterday I received from him a message approving of the steps taken and informing me of the gratification with which the President received the news that harmony prevails in the work.

"The Red Cross is replying to all requests sent us by committees and citizens in other parts of the country as to the form contributions should take. We have met such requests as we have to report that we have abundant supply of perishable food on hand and it will be much more to the benefit and purpose if all future contributions shall be in cash.

Want Cash Contributions.

"Mr. Allan Pollock and myself have been appointed purchasing agents under the general direction of the finance committee. While a large amount of money is to be available the needs of San Francisco are very great and I would not say a word that would seal the springs of charity or in any way check the splendid work that is being done by the people of the east, north, and south and west. Every precaution has been taken to protect these funds from waste. The finance committee has established an accounting system in the hands of experts and each dollar will be accounted for and so far as human endeavor can prevail, it will be wisely spent.

"All relief measures must be subordinated to the much more important consideration of enabling the people to get back to work and support themselves. To this end employment bureaus have been organized and the services of professor Carl C. Plehn, formerly superintendent of the census of the Philippine islands and Professor Westley C. Mitchell, both of whom are connected with the department of economics at the California state university, have been enlisted to organize a general restriction bureau to aid in finding employment for the unemployed and to furnish general statistical information of the progress of work of relief, and while I am on the subject I wish to say a word as to assistance so willingly given us by the University of California. It has placed its printing plant and clerical force at our disposal and this has greatly aided us in getting our office force into shape.

Work Conducted Carefully.

"It is thoroughly realized that work of relieving the distressed due to this great catastrophe should be conducted along careful and scientific lines. This is the great aim of the National Red Cross and we are enlisting cooperation of such experts as he can impress into service in this undertaking. We are being heartily seconded, not only by the leading citizens, of San Francisco, but by the community as a whole. The sub-committees appointed by the mayor are completely in accord with this idea.

"It is hoped that no opportunity to gather important and useful knowledge, which would be of incalculable service to other commercial unities in times of such distress, will be overlooked. That this be so, as thorough and as complete records of what has been done will be kept and the history of this great disaster add not a little to our knowledge of the science of relief."

To those who do not know, it may be stated that Dr. Devine is editor of Charities and the commons, president of the National Conference of Charities and corrections, general secretary of the charity organization society of New York and Schiff professor of social economy in the Columbia University. His chief assistant here is Ernest P. Bicknell, superintendent of the associated charities of Chicago. These two gentlemen are of the most part of the time to be found in the field. The office work is under the director of Dr. E. C. Moors, president of the state board of charities and corrections and dean of a Summer school of the University of California. The cheerfulness, courtesy and readiness of all these gentlemen have won them golden opinions in the minds of the stricken people of San Francisco.

FLOTSAM AND JETSAM.

The handsome bar tug Tatoosh, which has been at her berth for the past nine days, having some necessary work done in her engine room, will resume her activity on the bar this morning.

Captain Merriam of the Kilburn reports the water front of San Francisco badly demoralized as far as docking facilities are concerned, with part of the big sea wall blown out by dynamite to check the big fire along the wharves.

The steamer F. A. Kilburn arrived in from San Francisco at 8 o'clock yesterday morning, with forty-three people on board, eight of them in the steerage. These latter were free passengers and the company brought them through on their promise to make good at some future day. The balance of the list was made up of people in apparently good circumstances but anxious to find another habitation than the devastated city. The Kilburn went on to Portland about 9:30 o'clock.

The steamer Francis H. Leggett is due to arrive here from San Francisco this morning. She comes after the big Hammond raft that has lain in the lower bay all winter, and will take it under tow for San Francisco. The timber in it is sorely needed for building purposes down there; and when she has delivered it, she will return at once for the second raft now in chains at Stella, on the Columbia river, and which the tug Wallula goes up after this morning.

Some one announces the alleged discovery that few bald-headed men are to be found as violinists in orchestras. Certainly not; they are only in the front rows.

TRANS-PACIFIC YACHT RACE.

"La Paloma," Hawaii's cup defender, left her moorings sharply at 2 p. m. Saturday, April 14th, amid the hurrahs and hand clappings of hundreds of well wishers, who thronged Honolulu's busy water front to say Aloha to the beautiful little yacht and her plucky crew.

"La Paloma" goes to represent the Hawaii Yacht Club in one of the longest races in the history of yachting and the first of its kind to be sailed across the Pacific.

Before leaving, Commodore Macfarlane made a wager with the skippers of the barks St. Katherine and S. C. Allen, which sailed the same day, that he would beat them into San Francisco. The run should occupy about twenty days.

Seven yachts have now entered for the race including the "Anemone" flying the colors of the New York Yacht Club, on her way around the Horn and the "Maple Leaf" of the Victoria, B. C. Yacht Club. The entry of the latter gives an international aspect to the race. This will be the greatest event of the year in sporting circles.

Many thousands of people the world over will be watching for news of the sailing of the yachts which are scheduled to leave Meigs' wharf, San Francisco, for Honolulu at 2 p. m., Saturday, May 19th.
